The importance of the value and benefits of PRINCE2® showing real world case studies will be included.

Content

- The sessions are tailored to the audience and the business. The value of these deliveries is that they are in the context of the company. An awareness session can take many forms based on the need of the company, departments of the company or areas of the business.

Who Should Attend

- The awareness sessions are an invaluable first step for many in considering PRINCE2 and Service Management. The sessions can be used in many ways including as part of the adapting of Service Management within a business as a module of the education process – some may only need this session while others will complete an accreditation programme like PRINCE2® Foundation. Awareness sessions are used more often to communicate the value and return on investment for senior management. Sessions can be as focused as one hour but are up to one day.
